

Intervention

Management games

Change Phase

INTEREST / TRIAL

Description

A management game is often a simulation of a real business. It offers people the opportunity to experiment with new behaviour and thinking related to the change. In different rounds, one can see the effect of certain behaviours and approaches and then adapt. This intervention should be prepared and executed by a trained professional. Train - the trainers are also available.